Problem

It is extremely important to scout opposing teams when it comes to prepping for games. Whether we are looking into team records, specific player statistics, or gpa eligibility standings, there is a need to view all of these important aspects prior to going into games.

Is there a way to access all aspects of these top level players depending on what we are looking for in scouting reports?

Solution

Created a relational database for the women's soccer SCIAC League embodying information specific to teams, players, and head coaches. This database keeps track of key player statistics, can generate necessary scouting reports, provide information about head coaches, etc!
